Application summary

The city of Las Vegas is submitting an application for a Certificate of Appropriateness to demolish the Lorenzi Bell Tower, located at the east side of the lake (see attached aerial).

The bell tower was constructed in 1978. It was donated to the city of Las Vegas by the Murray Petersen Foundation. A similar tower was donated by the Murray Petersen Foundation to the University of Nevada, Las Vegas (see attached photographs).

Murray Petersen was the former owner of the Westward Ho Casino. He passed away in 1997 after living in Las Vegas for 42 years (please see attached biographical articles for more information).

Lorenzi Park is listed on the city of Las Vegas Historic Property Register as an Historic District.

Per City of Las Vegas Title 19.06.090.K.1 and 4:

L. Demolition and Removal

1. Whenever it is proposed to demolish or remove a structure or feature constituting or associated with a Landmark or Historic Property, or one that is located within a designated Historic District, and a demolition or other permit or approval is required for such work, the applicant must first obtain the approval of the HPC in accordance with this Subchapter. In the case of proposed work which, in the HPO's judgment, is minor in nature and impact, or is necessary immediately in order to protect life or property, the HPO shall be the approval authority. Approval pursuant to this Section indicates conformance with the provisions and intent of this Subchapter only and does not constitute or imply approval by any City department or other approval authority having jurisdiction.
4. The approval authority shall consider the application with reference to the objectives of this Subchapter. The approval authority may deny an application upon determining either of the following:

- a. That the structure or feature proposed for demolition or removal is of historic or architectural value or significance and contributes to the distinctive character of the property;
- b. That loss of the structure or feature would adversely affect the integrity or diminish the distinctive character of an Historic District.

Findings

The Secretary of the Interior's Standards for Rehabilitation

The Standards that follow were originally published in 1977 and revised in 1990 as part of Department of the Interior regulations (36 CFR Part 67, Historic Preservation Certifications). They pertain to historic buildings of all materials, construction types, sizes, and occupancy and encompass the exterior and the interior of historic buildings. The Standards also encompass related landscape features and the building's site and environment as well as attached, adjacent or related new construction.

The Standards are to be applied to specific rehabilitation projects in a reasonable manner, taking into consideration economic and technical feasibility.

1. A property shall be used for its historic purpose or be placed in a new use that requires minimal change to the defining characteristics of the building and its site and environment.
2. The historic character of a property shall be retained and preserved. The removal of historic materials or alteration of features and spaces that characterize a property shall be avoided.
3. Each property shall be recognized as a physical record of its time, place, and use. Changes that create a false sense of historical development, such as adding conjectural features or architectural elements from other buildings, shall not be undertaken.
4. Most properties change over time; those changes that have acquired historic significance in their own right shall be retained and preserved.
5. Distinctive features, finishes, and construction techniques or examples of craftsmanship that characterize a property shall be preserved.
6. Deteriorated historic features shall be repaired rather than replaced. Where the severity of deterioration requires replacement of a distinctive feature, the new feature shall match the old in design, color, texture, and other visual qualities and, where possible, materials. Replacement of missing features shall be substantiated by documentary, physical, or pictorial evidence.
7. Chemical or physical treatments, such as sandblasting, that cause damage to historic materials shall not be used. The surface cleaning of structures, if appropriate, shall be undertaken using the gentlest means possible.
8. Significant archeological resources affected by a project shall be protected and preserved. If such resources must be disturbed, mitigation measures shall be undertaken.
9. New additions, exterior alterations, or related new construction shall not destroy historic materials that characterize the property. The new work shall be differentiated from the old and shall be compatible with the massing, size, scale, and architectural features to protect the historic integrity of the property and its environment.
10. New additions and adjacent or related new construction shall be undertaken in such a manner that if removed in the future, the essential form and integrity of the historic property and its environment would be unimpaired.

Murray, Faye & Dean Petersen

Brother and sister group Murray, Faye and Dean Petersen came to Las Vegas from Utah in search of their opportunity. These pioneer developers of the early 60s were responsible for much of the residential development that occurred in the 60s through their company Roundup Realty. One of their developments, Central Park Apartments, located just off of the Las Vegas Strip was the spot to be in Vegas in the 60s and 70s. Coveted by casino bosses and other top casino workers, the waiting list to get a unit around their circular pool was endless.

Today, only the family matriarch remains. However, she could be found cleaning windows of their still family owned Westward-Ho Hotel & Casino in the early days. Developed by them in 1963, the Westward-Ho today remains one of the few remaining family owned hotel casinos on the central portion of the Las Vegas Strip. Among other noteworthy commitments for this pioneer family was their generosity to the community and the city in which they lived. This and more helped earn them a spot in the Top Ten Las Vegans of the 21st century. This past year, the Clark County School District named its newest elementary school after Dean.

Casino owner Petersen dies

Ed Koch and Elizabeth Dutton

Wednesday, Nov. 19, 1997 | 10:42 a.m.

Dean Petersen, a land tycoon and casino owner who in 1969 was kidnapped from a downtown Las Vegas parking lot but daringly escaped a day later, has died. He was 63.

Petersen, who became wealthy through real estate sales and investments and owned the Westward Ho casino on the Strip for more than 30 years, died Sunday at a local hospital.

Services for the 42-year local resident were to be held today at Palm Mortuary on Jones Boulevard. Burial was in Memory Gardens.

A skilled pilot of airplanes and helicopters, Petersen was one of a select group to be licensed to fly a Lear jet alone.

Close friend Hans Dorweiler described Petersen as a "man of conviction" who valued his privacy and whose word was his bond.

"He always wanted to stay out of the limelight," he said. "His integrity is absolutely beyond anything I've ever experienced with anyone else."

State Senate Majority Leader Bill Raggio, R-Reno, a longtime friend, said Petersen was a "very private individual of high principles" and he had "an intelligent business style."

"Dean had deep roots in Las Vegas and was a major player on the Strip, even though he never sought credit for that," said Raggio, who as the Washoe District Attorney tried the 1970 case that resulted in the convictions of Petersen's three kidnappers.

"He did not go to many social events, but he was a very generous man, who quietly contributed to many causes -- he never sought publicity for his philanthropy."

Another friend, who asked that his name not be printed, agreed: "Anybody who would do anything for Dean, you can bet your bottom dollar, he'd return it tenfold."

Members of Petersen's extended family recall his unending generosity and care for his nieces and nephews, whom he treated as if they were his own.

Stories of his selflessness are common. It is said that he once gave a blank check to a friend whose father required heart surgery. Petersen told him to use the check to pay for the medical expenses, no matter how exorbitant.

A UNLV official acknowledged Petersen's generosity to the university, especially to the athletic department.

The Mary Petersen Foundation was established by Petersen as a way to ensure that his philanthropic endeavors went directly to those in need.

Petersen moved to the area in 1954 with his sister, Faye. The family soon joined them and created a booming real estate business, later purchasing the Westward Ho.

Listed among the achievements of the family business are the construction of the first high-rise apartment in Las Vegas, some of the first multiple housing units in town, and responsibility for many of the area's circular buildings.

Petersen's fortune drew negative attention, as well.

On Oct. 9, 1969, Petersen was approached by two men -- one brandishing a gun and the other a bottle of acid -- as he left the offices of Lawyers Title on South Third Street. They forced him into a car and drove him to a trailer park near the old Dunes hotel-casino.

He was put into a trailer, handcuffed and bound. The trailer was driven 450 miles north to Reno by several assailants, who, according to reports at the time, threatened to poke out his eyes and cut off his fingers and toes if an $800,000 ransom was not paid.

While being held in Reno, Petersen escaped while his abductors were not watching him. They reportedly were on the phone discussing ransom drop-off terms with his family.

Petersen maneuvered out of the ropes, slipped the handcuffs, kicked open the trailer door and made what the SUN described in an Oct. 12, 1969, report as "a mad dash for freedom across a field to the Food King Supermarket."

From that store on Virginia Street, Petersen phoned Reno Police, who had been monitoring the ransom negotiations, to notify them of his escape. He then called his wife, Mary, to let her know everything was OK.

Police found the 35-year-old millionaire hiding behind cartons, pale and trembling, still holding in his hands the very handcuffs that were used to bind him.

"He was a victim of a most scary situation, especially when you consider that most adult victims of kidnappings don't return alive," said Raggio, noting that he developed his friendship with Petersen while preparing for trial and kept in touch with him over the years.

"It was a bungled kidnapping, but that did not make it any less of a dangerous situation."

Upon his return to the Hughes Flight Center in his Cessna 140, he told the SUN: "It's very gratifying to be able to come home to my family because many times I didn't think I would be able to."

Three men were convicted of first degree kidnapping: Joseph Lischko, a former St. Louis police officer who at the time was an out-of-work Carson City casino security guard; William McCool, a then-unemployed bartender from Seattle; and Robert Sheridan, a Carson City resident who was alleged to be the mastermind of the abduction.

All three, however, only served fractions of their sentences and were freed on parole.

Born March 4, 1934, in Hiram, Utah, Petersen was a member of Masonic Lodge 41, Scottish Rite and the Shriners.

In addition to his wife, Petersen is survived by two daughters, Karen Petersen Tyndall and Kathryn Petersen; one son, Michael Dean Petersen; three sisters, Faye Johnson, Nyla Petersen and Josi Brown; and three grandchildren, all of Las Vegas.

Petersen was preceded in death by a brother, Murray, who was killed in an electrical accident on a boat at Lake Mead.

DONATIONS: In Petersen's memory to the Boys and Girls Club of Las Vegas, P.O. Box 26689, Las Vegas, NV 89126.
