CITY MANAGER SELBY and KAREN COYNE, Chief of Detention and Enforcement, joined MAYOR GOODMAN for the recognition of NANCY CARLIN, Detention and Enforcement Officer, and OSCAR, her K-9 partner, as Employees of the Year for 2007. The Mayor announced that OFFICER CARLIN is so dedicated and committed that she utilized her own time and money to attend a detector dog competition, in which OSCAR and her took first place, and she recently became certified as a master trainer after completing a rigorous ten-week course. The extra training will greatly benefit the City and other agencies that use the services of this team.

CHIEF COYNE said that with this year being the 25th anniversary of the department, it was fitting for someone in her department to be recognized as employee of the year. She thanked OFFICER CARLIN for her commitment and congratulated her.

CITY MANAGER SELBY said the City is fortunate to have many fine employees, but OFFICER CARLIN and OSCAR really stood out as top employees.

OFFICER CARLIN expressed her appreciation to her supervisor, her fellow employees and her family for all their support. She does not see her job as work, because she enjoys it so much.
