RE: Concerning the flag at Towbin Auto sales on West Sahara at Lindell.

Sometime in late May or early June I was awakened in the early morning hours by what I thought was a gun being shot. It was a pop-pop-pop-pop sound. It happened again a little later and I called the police on the non-emergency number. An officer came to the door and I pointed out the location where I thought the sounds came from. The officer came back later and told me that everything in the neighborhood was quiet but if I heard anything again to call in.

I later heard the same sounds and I got in my car and drove in the direction of the sounds. I indeed found the reason for the noise. It was a huge flag snapping in the wind. The noise from it was much louder as I got closer. The location of the flag mentioned was at Towbin Auto Sales on the corner of Lindell and Sahara. (Two blocks from our house.)

I don't think that flag means anything to the owner of Towbin dealership but $$$$$$$$$$'s for advertising.

On any given night we can hear the paging systems from the dealerships blasting away. Help!!!!
