* STAFF REPORT ****

PROJECT DESCRIPTION

This is a request for a Variance to allow 43,996 square feet of open space where 50,094 square feet are required for a 70-lot residential subdivision on a 10.52 acre site on the east side of Tonkinese Avenue and Hualapai Way.

The benefit for allowing greater density is the provision of an imaginative layout and design, in which an intrinsic component is the provision of open space. Clearly, this applicant wishes to have the density advantage offered by R-PD zoning without providing any offsetting benefit to the community at large; therefore staff recommends denial.

Related Building Permits/Business Licenses
07/25/08	A business license (#C11-10826) was issued for a contractor at 7651 Anatolian Street.
Pre-Application Meeting
07/02/08	A pre-application meeting was held with the applicant. The applicant proposed modifying the existing Site Development Plan Review, reducing the common area and adding two more lots to the site. Staff indicated that this would require a new Site Development Plan Review and a Variance for Open Space. Submittal requirements were then discussed in detail.

Field Check
08/08/08	A field check was made on site showing significant grading, interior paved streets, exterior walls and a 20-foot wide Multi-Use Trail along Hualapai Way. There are two model homes on the site with a parking lot. The exterior walls provided do not meet Title 19.12.075(G) Wall Standards requiring a wall to be composed of a minimum of twenty percent contrasting material.

ANALYSIS

The proposed project is consistent with portions of Title 19.06 development standards. However, the development does not comply with the open space requirements in Title 19 for the R-PD (Residential Planned Development) zoning district. Open space is an integral part of the R-PD zone, as the developer receives flexibility in design and density for the provision of amenities, such as open space. When open space is not provided, in effect, the project does not meet the standards for the zoning district in which it is located.

The alternative for allowing greater density is the provision of an imaginative layout and design, in which an intrinsic component is the provision of open space. Clearly, this applicant wishes to have the density advantage offered by R-PD zoning without providing any offsetting benefit to the community at large.

FINDINGS

In accordance with the provisions of Title 19.18.070(B), Planning Commission and City Council, in considering the merits of a Variance request, shall not grant a Variance in order to:

1. Permit a use in a zoning district in which the use is not allowed;
2. Vary any minimum spacing requirement between uses;
3. Relieve a hardship which is solely personal, self-created or financial in nature.

Additionally, Title 19.18.070L states:

Where by reason of exceptional narrowness, shallowness, or shape of a specific piece of property at the time of enactment of the regulation, or by reason of exceptional topographic conditions or other extraordinary and exceptional situation or condition of the piece of property, the strict application of any zoning regulation would result in peculiar and exceptional practical difficulties to, or exceptional and undue hardships upon, the owner of the property, a variance from that strict application may be granted so as to relieve the difficulties or hardship, if the relief may be granted without substantial detriment to the public good, without substantial impairment of affected natural resources and without substantially impairing the intent and purpose of any ordinance or resolution.

No evidence of a unique or extraordinary circumstance has been presented, in that the applicant has created a self-imposed hardship by designing a subdivision with less than the required open space. In view of the absence of any hardships imposed by the sites physical characteristics, it is concluded that the applicants hardship is preferential in nature, and it is thereby outside the realm of NRS Chapter 278 for granting of Variances.
