Re: Var 33012 zon 32514

I own real estate at 274 Star Cluster Circle, Las Vegas Nevada, which is located within 100 feet of the real estate involved in the above appeal for a variance pertaining to allowing a set back from the strict enforcement of the applicable set back requirements of the existing zoning ordinance.

First of all set back requirements of a zoning ordinance are designed to give protection to adjoining property owners. Reducing the set back requirements from 136 feet to 79 feet, in the instant case will detrimentally affect

The real estate that I own and occupy. Set back requirements are designed to give protection to adjoining property owners. Waiver from the designed, by ordinance, set back requirement should not be granted, where there are no practical difficulties or unnecessary hardships which prevent carrying out the strict letter of the set back ordinance. An economic hardship should not be deemed an excuse to carrying out the strict requirement of the set back law. In the instant case, the applicant has sufficient property, in size, to obey all of the present set back requirements, and to give the complete protection to adjoining property owners which the present zoning ordinance requires of the law as designed to do.

Next, it appears that the applicant is changing the appeal when the appeal has reached the City Council stage. The appeal for a variance as it now stands, is materially different from what it was when the first neighborhood meeting on the proposal was held. The appeal is now different from what it was when the hearing before the Planning Commission was held. The appeal as it now stands, before the last governing body is not the same as the appeal that was originally filed and public hearings or meetings were conducted.

The zoning ordinance, and the strict requirements of it, should not be thrown out or negated. There is no perfect hardship involved in strictly enforcing the ordinance as it applies to the applicants real estate. There are no exceptional or extraordinary circumstances or physical conditions, such as shape or topography of the property that would call for a decrease in the set back requirements of the existing ordinance.

The requested variance of the existing set back requirements under the present status of the appeal should be denied.
