

September 13, 2011

To Whom It May Concern:

Back in April 2006, I requested for a variance to allow a proposed carport at my home 5517 Bromley Ave. Las Vegas, NV 89107.

The Planning Commission voted to approve my request. I went to the Planning and Development Service Center where I made a payment of $600.00 mistakenly thinking that this payment was all I needed to start.

Being my first time taking on such a project I wasn't aware that I also needed a building permit, so I went on to finish my carport.

My second mistake was my measurements. I was allowed a carport to be 14 ft. six inches from back of the property line. I mistakenly measured from the curb instead of the property line.

My request is if I may salvage part of what I've done by eliminating 5 ft. to comply with the ordinance that I was first given?

Thank you,

Manuel Hernandez

RECEIVED
SEP 21 2011
City of Las Vegas

VAR-43331