

VIII. MEETING SUMMARY – DISCUSSION

Mr. Reilly: There's some themes that surfaced in each of the three discussions. One of those was the issue of communication. This is vitally important to local government. State legislators and local governments share the same constituents.

The other recommendation is how do you personalize it to your own area with your own citizens and with your own legislators to talk about the impacts and issues we are struggling with as a state.

The other theme that came up was a need for further analysis by your own staff, technical staff, and look into opportunities for other reports that have these analysis that can add to this whole discussion.

Mr. Reilly thanked everyone for their participation in this very important discussion.

IX. PUBLIC COMMENT

Juanita Clark, Charleston Neighborhood Preservation, City of Las Vegas, stated that they have been concerned about this issue for years and is against this. We see our city as having taken on some more powers, and instead of becoming more open and more available, we find things are worded in a way that is a challenge for the regular person from government to comprehend. She noted that elected officials should be aware of the responsibilities they are giving to staff.

X. ADJOURNMENT

There being no further business to be discussed, Mayor Hafen adjourned the Nevada Local Government Summit at 4:57 p.m.

On behalf of their respective entities, Mayor Oscar Goodman, City of Las Vegas; Mayor Sheri Buck, City of North Las Vegas; Mayor Susan Holecheck, City of Mesquite; Mayor Bob Cashell, City of Reno; Mayor Roger Tobler, City of Boulder City; and Chairman Rory Reid, Clark County, adjourned the special meeting.

Respectfully submitted,

Tedia Jackson, Minutes Clerk
