Minutes:

COMMISSIONER SCHLOTTMAN stated he met with FLINN FAGG, Director of Planning when he moved to Las Vegas. He has given knowledgeable directions ever since, and he has been a valuable asset to the City. MR. FAGG has taught him a lot over the years and he could not have achieved all he has without his help. He will be greatly missed.

COMMISSIONER QUINN stated that people look at the Planning Commission as volunteering their time but with MR. FAGG at the helm, he is able to balance the public with the Commission and come to a common ground. She read an email from COMMISSIONER BONAR stating that in the time he has known MR. FAGG, one of the strengths he has observed is how much he recognizes the public and what it takes to make things work positively. This is a very rare attribute, and often it is essential to walk on a thin line that separates the private from the public sectors, and he will miss him. COMMISSIONER QUINN indicated she is sentimental and she will miss his professionalism, his compassion and will miss his friendship; cheers and God's speed.

COMMISSIONER GOYNES concurred with the Commissioners' comments and added that MR. FAGG is a true gentleman, professional and always fast to respond to emails or telephone calls. He is a great human being and wished him lots of luck.

COMMISSIONER MOODY thanked MR. FAGG for his non-ending supply of M&Ms. He has been a gentleman, gracious and professional and wished him good luck.

COMMISSIONER FLANGAS indicated he has enjoyed sitting next to MR. FAGG for the past two years. He commended MR. FAGG as being a veritable encyclopedia of City planning. He has been a gentleman, an advisor, he has been great for the City of Las Vegas and he will be missed. Palm Springs lured the best.

MR. FAGG thanked the Commissioners for their words and stated that it was a tough decision for him. He has called Las Vegas his home for the past 11 years and serving as a Planning

PLANNING COMMISSION MEETING OF: August 12, 2014

Director has been an honor, especially working with the Planning Commission. They have not always agreed on matters coming before the Planning Commission, but have had healthy discussions. He appreciates the Commissioners' input, professionalism and how much they care about the City of Las Vegas. He appreciates their input pertaining to projects and making the City a better place. No director does anything by himself; therefore, he commended his staff and everyone at the City of Las Vegas he was worked for the past 11 years for their help and support. He thanked everyone for the honor.

The meeting was adjourned at 8:26 p.m.

Respectfully submitted:

Angela Crolli, Deputy City Clerk

Jacquie Miller, Deputy City Clerk
