MONA LISA SAMUELSON, a medical marijuana patient activist, thanked the City for beginning this process with the ordinance because she feels medical marijuana patients are the ones who need this the most and need to feel safe. She added that the medical marijuana patients are looking forward to the new conversations between the City and Clark County, as this needs to be a collaborative effort. Otherwise, it will be up to the Legislators who do not understand it from a viable, practical standpoint as marijuana patients do.
